'Greg really stood out as someone we are proud to have a relationship with,' commented Greg Damato, Vice President of Community Living Arrangement for Keystone Human Services, the parent of Key Human Services. 'His actions coincide with our values and our mission in supporting the lives of individuals with developmental disabilities, and his contributions are outstanding.'

According to Damato, Key Human Services started working with The Rideshare Company about two years ago. The Rideshare Company assists the organization by making arrangements for enhanced transportation for residents who reside in the fifteen group homes, ranging from Waterbury to Waterford. 'Greg has made it his business to meet the people we support, and understand their needs,' remarked Damato. 'He has a sense of budgetary situations, and is creative and innovative in terms of our organization being able to afford to meet the needs of the people we support. He has gone above and beyond what you would expect to take place in various situations, and really takes a thorough interest in our needs, and the communities' needs.'

'The award came as a pleasant surprise for me,' commented Levitz, who said he had no idea that the dinner he attended for the organization would entail him receiving such an honor. '(Key Human Services) are a great group of folks doing a great service. They are doing the right thing for the people. We at The Rideshare Company enjoy working with them very much.'
